Two Brothers from Northern Austria bound together by more than just their love for music. Inspired by feelings they reach beneath the surface.
Since 2017 the project has evolved from simply sorting out their emotions through music to releasing their debut album "Light Life Love" in 2025.
The way the Fitz Brothers tell their story is almost cinematic. They posses a tendency of spinning pop and indie together to produce songs made to feel. Emotions meant for the big screen...

In their own words:

"Music has always been our way to sort out our thoughts and confront our emotions. It's a way of growing and helping others grow into greater human beings. We hope we can inspire you and give you some sort of experience that gets you more in touch with yourself. That's what music has always done. That's what it does for us."
